KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

Opening Keynote Address:

Dr. Johnny Good

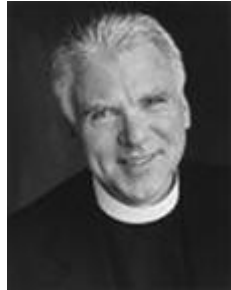

Dr. Johnny Good is Professor Emeritus at Beacon College, where he has served as Vice President of Institutional Effectiveness and Outreach Programs. He also served as the Director of the Beacon College Quality Enhancement Plan, □Enhancing Critical Thinking for Students with Learning Disabilities.□ Dr. Good is passionate about the idea that learning a discipline or subject matter is important, but is not all there is to being educated. He believes students with learning disabilities must learn to think critically in order to function and succeed in today's complex society. As an adult with a learning disability, Dr. Good has a unique perspective of the difficulties students with learning disabilities face in their pursuit of a quality education and the role that using good critical thinking skills play in reaching one's educational goals and potential in life.

Dr. Good received his Ed.D. degree from Texas A & M University in Secondary and Higher Education. He is a frequent presenter at conferences and high schools, telling his life story of how he was told he could never attend college and how he used □secret□ study strategies to attain success in college, rising from a janitor position to becoming a college vice president. His strategies for success have inspired students with learning disabilities across the nation to never give up on themselves, and to work hard to attain their educational goals and fulfill their potential.

Closing Keynote Address:

Rick Curry, SJ, PhD.

Back by popular demand, Rick Curry will provide insights into his work with Wounded Warriors. For the past five years, Curry has been teaching veterans returning from Iraq and Afghanistan how to write their stories as theatre and providing opportunities for them to tell their stories to live audiences. He will share with us what he has learned in this work with our veterans and how theatre can be a healing foundation for these men and women. Curry currently teaches Theatre at Georgetown University in Washington, DC and continues his work with veterans in the Washington area and across the country.

SPECIAL PRESENTATIONS BY:

Dr. Amy Albee, Coordinator of Access and Equity for the Florida Department of Education will focus on issues dealing with transitions and documentation for students with disabilities and bring conference participants up to date on statewide issues and policies.

Dr. Scott Lissner, Disability and ADA Coordinator, Ohio State University and President-Elect of the Association on Higher Education and Disability (AHEAD) will address the challenges colleges and universities face with the reauthorization of the Americans with Disabilities Act and provide insights into strategies to ensure compliance with the new amendments.

CONFERENCE SITE

This year's conference will be at the EpiCenter, a joint-use facility between St. Petersburg College and Pinellas County where professionals from business, government and academia come together to provide a unique blend of information and services. The EpiCenter houses SPC's Corporate Training Center, which provides innovative business solutions and training to meet the needs of businesses and individuals through credit and non-credit classes in professional development, technology, regulated industries, and business solutions.

The EpiCenter also houses the 10,000-squarefoot Collaborative Labs, where businesses can focus on planning, strategizing, problemsolving, and business development. Additionally, the EpiCenter has instructional space for several of SPC's high-tech, two-year programs, as well as the college's four-year Technology Management program.

ACCOMMODATIONS

A block of rooms has been reserved for conference participants at the Holiday Inn Express, 13625 ICOT Blvd., Largo, Fla. This newly renovated hotel is within walking distance of the conference site. Transportation also will be provided for those who prefer to ride. Room rates $119 per night plus tax. There are suites available at $149 per night plus tax. Guest room rates include a hot breakfast each morning. Call 727-536-7275 and ask for a group-rate reservation with St. Petersburg College's Narrowing the Gulf Conference.
